

Therapeutic Classroom Consultation

Many districts now operate their own therapeutic classrooms.

We can help!

In partnership with school districts throughout the state, Four Oaks has over a decade of experience operating innovative Therapeutic Classrooms serving special education students in grades K-12.

These classrooms typically serve youth that have experienced significant trauma and/or struggle with emotion regulation and mental health. They not only meet the child's educational needs, but also utilize a trauma-informed approach.

Some districts take more of a "regulation room" approach, and we can support that, too! Check out one district's regulation room process!

How can we support starting a classroom or improving your current classrooms?

With over a decade of experience in therapeutic classrooms, our Four Oaks Education team can support districts with scheduling, establishing norms and routines, embedding social skills lessons, regulation practice, and transitioning back to a typical classroom setting. Our education liaisons are able to visit classrooms, consult with staff, and have staff visit one of our therapeutic classrooms to get some real trauma-informed experience in this setting.
